YWCA St. Paul is eliminating racism and empowering women.

BACKGROUND

Our programs advance racial equity by helping low-income individuals and families overcome barriers to access and achieve success in areas characterized by significant racial disparities.

- In 2018, our social services programs served more than 1,000 families. Nearly all (97%) were categorized as low-income and 94% of these individuals were people of color. Nearly three-quarters (72%) of our participants were female.
- Our Housing & Supportive Services programs help address the critical need for affordable housing in St. Paul and beyond.
- Our Employment & Economic Development programs provide pathways to new skills that reflect trends in the job market.
- Our Youth programs provide safe spaces for young people to connect and grow.
- Our Health & Fitness Center (HFC) empowers members of all ages to reap the myriad benefits of physical activity while forming connections with their neighbors.
- Our community events, from community conversations on divisive issues to educational workshops on issues of social justice, help inform and bring people together to advance equity and strengthen our communities.

“My children are safe and able to be the playful children they should be able to be. I’m so thankful for everyone who has supported me throughout this journey, including YWCA St. Paul.”

Junise, who shared her story at Sweet Success 2019, moved into YW's Transitional Housing program with her children after leaving a domestic violence situation. With a roof over their heads, Junise filed an order for protection against her husband as she started the divorce process, earned a 4.0 GPA while earning her medical administrative assistant certificate, and found a job at a medical call center.
